

Ai Ads Mastery – Privacy Policy

1. What We Collect

We collect and process limited information necessary to operate the Ai Ads Mastery platform effectively. This may include:

- Name, email address, and payment details provided during checkout or registration
- Basic usage data (e.g. login timestamps, course progress, or content interactions)
- Technical information such as device type, browser, and IP address for security and analytics purposes

We do not collect sensitive personal information such as government IDs, health data, or biometric identifiers.

2. How We Use Your Data

We use collected information to:

- Provide access to purchased course materials and content
- Manage user accounts and payments
- Improve platform functionality and content quality
- Send updates, onboarding materials, and relevant communication about your course access
- Ensure platform security and prevent unauthorized access

We do not sell, rent, or share personal data with third parties for marketing purposes.

3. Payments and Third-Party Processors

Payments are securely processed through trusted third-party providers (such as Whop, Stripe, or similar platforms).

These providers handle your payment information in accordance with their own privacy and security standards.

We do not store full credit card details on our servers.

4. Data Storage & Retention

- Your data is stored only for as long as necessary to maintain your access to Ai Ads Mastery and fulfill legal obligations.
- If you request deletion, your account and personal information will be permanently removed within 30 days (except where retention is legally required).
- Non-essential analytics data may be anonymized and retained for performance tracking.

5. Who Has Access

Access to user data is strictly limited to authorized personnel responsible for operating the platform, handling payments, and providing support.

No advertisers, affiliates, or third-party marketing agencies have access to your personal data.

6. Your Rights

You may request at any time to:

- Access or export your personal data
- Correct inaccurate information
- Request permanent deletion of your account and associated data
- Withdraw consent for non-essential data collection

Requests can be made via the contact email provided during your purchase or through the platform dashboard.

7. Security Practices

We follow industry-standard security protocols including encryption, limited access rights, and regular audits.

While we take all reasonable precautions, we cannot guarantee absolute protection against data breaches or unauthorized access.

8. Policy Updates

We may update this Privacy Policy from time to time to reflect platform improvements or changes in legal requirements.

Continued use of the platform after an update constitutes acceptance of the revised policy.

By purchasing and accessing Ai Ads Mastery, you acknowledge that you have read and understood this Privacy Policy.